2. In early August the Chinese Communist East China Education Department established a primary school teachers' training camp in Suchou (120-37, 31-19) and another in Wuhsi (120-18, 31-35), and ordered primary schools in these areas to send able teachers to these camps for training.<sup>5</sup> The curriculum included courses in political education and child psychology.
The training period was one and one-half months. For the first training period, 800 teachers were to attend the Suchou camp and 300 the Wuhsi camp.

4. [redacted] Comment. These schools are in or near Shanghai.

5. [redacted] Comment. [redacted] by the spring of 1950 authorities of Chekiang planned to replace all primary school teachers with personnel who have completed a special Communist indoctrination program. This is possibly a similar training plan.
